No Truth in the Rumor—Will of Amos Kendall—Storekeepers Appointed—Health of Gen. Spinner.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

WASHINGTON, November 16, 1869.

NO TRUTH IN THE RUMOR.

Thomas J. Derrant, now here, denies the statement that the President offered him the Judgeship of the Louisiana Circuit, and that he has declined the appointment. He has not even received an intimation that he would be appointed, nor has he applied for the office.

AMOS KENDALL'S WILL.

The will of Amos Kendall was admitted to probate to-day. After bequeathed to a grandson $10,000 and his lands in Arkansas, he makes bequests to several of his children, and directs that his personal property be divided between his four daughters, and gives the executors full power to dispose of his real estate, which is worth $300,000, to be divided among his heirs.

APPOINTMENTS OF STOREKEEPERS.

The following appointments of Internal Revenue officials have been made: Levi Weise, Store Keeper, Eighth Pennsylvania District; Jno. W. Basser and Neikel C. Stockton, Store Keepers, Fourth Pennsylvania District.

HEALTH OF GEN. SPINNER.

CHICAGO.

Wife-Murderer to be Hanged—Troubles of a Newly Appointed Governor—Journeymen Tailors' Strike, &c.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Daniel Walsh, the wife-murderer, who was convicted in the Superior Court of this city last week, and whom the jury recommended that he be hanged was this morning refused a new trial, and Judge Porter thereupon sentenced him to be hanged on Friday, the 10th of December next.

Two additional letters from Pembina, dated November 3d and 4th, received at St. Paul, give additional particulars of the Red River rebellion. It seems Gov. McDougall remained over night of the 2d at Hudson Bay Stockade, about two miles from the United States border, but in the morning was notified by five hundred rebels to leave the British territory by nine o'clock. He declined doing so, and at nine o'clock the rebels marched into the stockade and the Governor and party marched out in haste, and betook themselves to the United States territory, where they are awaiting further developments.

It is said McDougall has sent a messenger overland to the Dominion Government, at Ottawa, for troops and munitions of war to enable him to obtain possession of his country.

The rebels are determined and unanimous, and considering the inaccessibility of the country and near approach of winter, and other obvious obstacles to successful military operations, the temporary success of the rebellion is not doubtful. The object of the uprising is opposition to being hitched to the Canadian confederation of the new dominion, and a determination on the part of the people of the British red river settlement that they shall be allowed to remain an independent British colony, subject only to the Home Government of England.

This affair will probably result in war, and bloodshed, before it is ended.

The Ladies and children of McDougalls party are on route for St. Paul.

Robert M. Douglas, son of the late Stephen A. Douglas, and private Secretary to President Grant, is in this city.

The police authorities report two hundred and seventy-five houses of ill-fame in this city, and several wards to hear from.

The Journeymen Tailors' strike in this city continues, but nearly all employed by leading merchant tailors have gone to work again in spite of the edict of the union that they should not do so, the journeymen being convinced of the uselessness of striking on technical terms, and remaining idle when they are unable to do so. The employers have also resolved to employ whom they please without regard to the rules and regulations of the union, but are paying prices in accordance with the revised bill. The union will probably have to yield.

Lucy Patterson, alias Kelly, on whom Dr. Stratford produced an abortion a day or two since, died this morning as the result.

ST. LOUIS.

Trouble About the Disposal of Railroad Stock.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

ST. LOUIS, November 16.—The County Court to-day affirms its action of yesterday regarding the sale of its Pacific Railroad stock. Judges Dalley and Farrer protested against the action of the Court, and G. W. R. Taylor offered $300,000 cash for the stock. Other parties also stated after the final action of the Court that they would pay more than Mr. Bridge offered. Several prominent citizens were present, and protested, as tax payers, against the sale of the stock. Subsequently an injunction to restrain the County Court from transferring the stock to Bridge was applied for in the Circuit Court, upon which a decision will be given to-morrow. The affair has created considerable excitement among railroad men and citizens generally, it being understood who ever obtains the stock owned by the county and city will control the Pacific road.

CLEVELAND.

Another Shocking and Mysterious Murder.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

CLEVELAND, November 16.—A man named Ferdinand Bresser, while working on his farm at the five mile Lock, near this City, last evening, was attacked by two men and fatally stabbed. He was able to walk home after the assassins left him; but died shortly after. The reason for this attack is a mystery to the family of the deceased, and he himself threw no light on it. Bresser was an Austrian by birth, and served in the army of that country several years. He was an industrious, sober and good citizen. He was employed a part each day in a powder mill near by. Two men named Call and Feller, also employed in the mill, were arrested to-day on suspicion of being the murderers.

BALTIMORE.

Election of Officers of the B. & O. R. R. Company.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

BALTIMORE, November 16.—At the annual meeting yesterday of the stockholders of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the following persons were re-elected directors for the ensuing year: Jno. Hopkins, Samuel W. Smith, Francis Bevans, Jno. Spear, Nicholas Jno. Gregg, C. Oliver O'Donnell, Jas. Harney, Galloway Chester, William W. Taylor, Samuel Kirby, Allen A. The Fisk-Gould-McHenry War Ended—A Test Case—Important Rumor—The Spanish "Musketo Fleet"—The New Constitution Defeated—Bogus Officers—Detectives on the track of Blatchford—Architect's Convention—The Chataqua County Burglary Case, &c., &c.

NEW YORK, November 16, 1869.

It is stated that the trouble between the Erie managers and Mr. McHenry, of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway, was brought to a pacific and satisfactory conclusion yesterday. Messrs. Fisk, Gould, McHenry, and O'Dougherty, and their legal advisers, were in constant communication throughout the day, and at last the terms proposed by Fisk were agreed to. It is now arranged that the Erie Company shall pay at the rate of $16,000,000, inclusive of a lease for the use and control of the Atlantic and Great Western, and the necessary documents were probably signed to-day. Proceedings at law have been abandoned on both sides, and the legal forces stationed at Akron have received orders to disperse.

The steamers City of London and Iowa, from Europe, have arrived.

At the instigation of Frank E. Howe, special Agent for the Treasury, two men named Frederick G. Keever and John W. Lalor, were arrested for entering, on Saturday evening, Dunerger's store, East Tenth street, showing Custom House badges, and seizing a large amount of valuable laces, shawls, &c., for alleged non-payment of duty. On the seizure being resisted, one of the men drew a revolver. The accused were arraigned before Commissioner Shields to-day. Keever, in default of $5,000 bail, was committed for examination next Friday. Lalor, who says he is a clerk of the naval officer, was discharged on his own recognizance, to appear as a witness against Keever.

District Attorney Pierrepont emphatically denies the statement that a warrant has not been issued for Blatchford. Such a warrant was issued some days ago, and expert detectives are on his track. Notwithstanding reports are studiously circulated to the contrary, Blatchford is believed to be in this city—also Whilste, one of the originators of the frauds.

The steamer Westphalia to-day took $33,000 in specie.

It is announced that Lockwood & Co. will resume business this week.

The case of Crawford, arrested as being Luke Egan, the Chataqua county burglar, was again before Judge Cardoso to-day. It was stated that the prisoner had been taken from the police headquarters before service of the habeas corpus upon Superintendent Kennedy. The case was postponed till Friday. It is reported on good authority that the grand jury to-day investigated Kennedy's action, the object being, as is claimed, to procure an indictment against him for transcending his authority. The investigation was not concluded.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

PARIS, November 16.—As the Sultan has finally decided not to be present at the opening of M. De Lesseps' great work, the Viceroy will be able to exercise his hospitality in his own way, and will receive the credit of the undertaking. France will be represented by the Empress, who, in her steam yacht, the Aigle, will lead the way at the grand opening procession. Austria will be represented by her Emperor; Prussia, by the Prince of Prussia; Italy, by Prince Amodeus, and a host of smaller nations and tribes will have representatives to swell the pageant. The first great gathering will take place at Port Said on the 16th inst. On the 17th there will be a grand ball at Ismalia. On the 18th there will be a great gathering of the tribes at Ismalia, and a grand entertainment will be given, one feature of which will be the evolutions on horseback by the Arabs. On the 19th a grand procession will start for Suez, when the canal will be formally opened on the 20th. The leading feature of the day's proceedings will be the erection of the monument to Waychien, who first propounded the idea of establishing the route to India via the Isthmus of Suez. This graceful acknowledgment of the services of an Englishman will show that no ill will is borne to England, although she has not rendered any assistance to Lesseps.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 16.—Festivities preliminary to the inauguration of the Suez Canal commenced at Port Said yesterday. The Emperor of Austria landed at noon and was received by the Khedive with great ceremony and a magnificent military and civic display. The houses were decorated, arches were raised over the principal streets, hundreds of flags were flying, and salutes were exchanged between the fleet and shore. At night the town and harbor were ablaze with fireworks and illuminations, the streets were bright as day, all the house tops being covered with lighted torches. The rigging of the men-of-war and shipping in the harbor was hung with lanterns of every color, and showers of rockets were rising and falling. The Khedive gave a grand ball on board his yacht, which was a superb affair. It was attended by the Emperor Francis Joseph, and all the distinguished guests now assembled at Port Said. The water was alive with boats hastening to the vice regal yacht. The ball lasted until early morning.

To-day the Empress Eugenie arrived and was received by the Viceroy and the Austrian Emperor and landed amid the thundering of cannon and the acclamations of the multitude who lined the shore.

Among the events to-day was the dedication of a Christian Church and of a Mohamedan Mosque. Priests and ministers of all creeds were invited to be present on both occasions.

Two British men-of-war, Royal Oak and Prince Consort, went ashore Sunday in the harbor. They got afloat with much difficulty.

On Monday evening a flotilla of about fifty vessels, none of them drawing over fifteen feet water, will sail through the canal, bearing the Viceroy of Egypt, Empress of the French, and the Emperor of Austria, with all the invited guests. The weather is most favorable.

FRANCE.

PARIS, November 15.—It is currently reported in political circles to-day that the Emperor has abandoned the hope of re-arranging the Ministry or of forming an entirely new Cabinet just at present. It is said that after the meeting and organization of the Legislative body on the 29th, he will proceed to select a new Cabinet, choosing for office men who can command a majority of votes in the Chamber on the most important questions. Rochefort is now regarded certain of being chosen to represent the first electorial district of Paris. The troops in and around Paris have been quietly concentrated at different points and the prospect of popular tumult or disorder is regarded as quite remote.

The Journal Des Debats asserts that Queen Isabella has definitely abdicated the throne of Spain.

Le Temps says everything is impossible in Spain. Now a republic, because the republicans are insufficient—a monarchy, because no party is strong enough to appoint a king. Unless a coup de etat or a religious revolution occurs, Spain will probably remain professedly an irregular republic under the name of monarchy.

Bishop Dupanloup has published a letter to the clergy of his diocese deprecating the idea that the present is a favorable opportunity for claiming the infallibility of the Pope. He blames such journals as the L'Universe and La Civilla Cattalaca for their inconsiderate haste in discussing so delicate a question in anticipation of the deliberations of the Council.

The Emperor gave an audience to Baron Werther, the newly appointed Ambassador from Prussia, at Compeigne, yesterday. Werther, in presenting his credentials, assured the Emperor that the Prussian Government desired to preserve the present amicable relations with France. It is reported that the Emperor will leave Compiegne for Paris befor the elections commence, and will remain in the City until they have terminated.

It is more than likely that several French war ships will also join the funeral fleet.

SPAIN.

MADRID, Nov. 16.—The disposal of the republican prisoners, taken during the late insurrection, is under consideration. The Government is inclined to clemency, but at the same time will be careful not to endanger the future peace of the country by a mistaken leniency. It is said the prisoners will be allowed to choose between joining the Spanish army in Cuba or transportation to the Phillipine Islands, there to await the result of legal proceedings against them.

RUSSIA.

TORONTO.

What the Canadians Think About the Red River Affair.

CHICAGO, November 16.—A special despatch from St. Saul to the Toronto Globe respecting the expulsion of Gov. McDougall and party from Red River, causes much excitement and indignation. The despatch says that McDougall had advanced two miles beyond the frontier and stopped at the Hudson Bay Co's. post, sending Mr. Provencher forward to parley with the insurgents, who were 500 strong. Provencher was made prisoner, and McDougall beleagured in the fort. No resistance was attempted, and on the 2d of November the Governor was escorted across the line, and is now encamped near Pembina, in Dakota Territory. No violence was offered. The insurgents were French and they organized a Provisional Government. It is reported McDougall has applied to the Ottawa authorities for troops. His family will return to Canada.

The latest intelligence from the Winnepeg war says Governor McDougall is now encamped in Dakotah Territory. His family will return to Canada, but the Governor and his staff will await events at Fort Garry, where a party in his favor is said to exist, consisting of the late Hudson Bay Company officials, and some Scotch and English settlers. Meanwhile the insurgents have organized a provisional government and demand a territorial government, after American fashion.

Railroad Excitement in Boston—Hartford and Erie Stock Sells Down to 9 3-4.

BOSTON, November 16.—There is continued excitement in Hartford and Erie stock and bonds, and to-day transactions on the street have been very heavy, the stock selling down to 9¾, and bonds to 46¾. Parties who borrowed money on the stock and bonds have been notified for additional collateral, but reply that they cannot put up more margins, but the officers of the company will give the company's note on six months at 8 per cent., if acceptable to lenders. Some have done this, while others have thrown their collateral on the market, getting whatever they could realize from the sales.

Further of the Catskill Boiler Explosion.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

CATSKILL, N. Y., Nov. 16.—The boiler explosion yesterday was not so serious in result as first reported. There were only three badly injured. Mr. George Brandow was hurt about the head by the falling debris, and one leg is so badly injured that it will have to be amputated. His sister, Mrs. Dulver, had her collar bone broken, but will recover. Frank Garniff, engineer, was scalded and slightly burned about the wrists, but will recover.

Storm & Corsas' paper mill, near where the explosion occurred, is damaged to the amount of $12,000; insured.

Mrs. Brandow lies in a very critical condition.

—The Custom House authorities, of Philadelphia, refused a few days since to issue papers for the clearance of the steamship General Dulce, formerly a Spanish scult, upon the supposition that it was the intention of her officers to evade the neutrality law, and on the strength of the fact that she was at one time an American vessel, previously to her sailing under a foreign flag. The Dulce was brought into the port a short time since for repairs, but was seized and sold for debt. A party in New York bought and fitted her for sea.

THE OIL "CORNER."

MESSRS EDITORS: Since writing my last article on the "bull" movement in oil, quite a number of articles have appeared in some of the other city journals on the same subject, pro and con. I was, to say the least, somewhat surprised to find one of our papers come out in an editorial one day, condemning in very severe terms the whole thing as immoral, characterizing those who were connected with the "bull ring" as gamblers, and in substance that it was damaging and deranging the financial and commercial character of the city. Strange, as it may seem, this same journal—I refer to the Dispatch—came out two days afterward in an editorial, in which it took back almost all of the wholesale doctrine set forth, and advocated, in its former article. A remarkable change seems to have taken place in the mind of the editor of that journal within twenty-four hours. What caused it? Did he get some more light on the subject? The Commercial, which, also, prior to that time, was inclined, if anything, to be a little "bearish," changed its tactics very suddenly and followed in the wake of the Dispatch. I have no fault to find with these papers in regard to the course they have taken on this subject, further than a great want of consistency, which to my mind is a very important element in conducting a newspaper.

Having devoted more space than I intended to the above named papers, I now propose to examine the "bulls" themselves. When this thing was first broached, the gentlemen who at that time were supposed to be the head-centres of this "bull ring," denied that any such thing as a "corner" was contemplated; that no short turns or ugly practices were intended; that no combination existed; that everything was "on the square." Since then, however, they have been forced to admit that there was then, and is now, a combination, and where there is a combination there must be an object, and what could the object of this one be but, if possible, to "corner" the market, squeeze the "shorts" or "bears," the very thing that was so persistently denied at the outset. It is unnecessary to recur to the means resorted to to bring this about. Outside capitalists were taken into the ring, an immense sum of money raised, estimated at $1,500,000 to $1,800,000, our banks drained and legitimate business made to suffer.

I now propose to examine briefly the pretext or justification advanced by the "bulls" for the course they have taken. They virtually admit that the movement is not altogether fair or legitimate, but that they have been so badly and repeatedly fleeced by the "bears" during the past six months, particularly those New York "bears," that some of them were on the road to ruin, and that if they did not resort to something of the kind they would be forced into bankruptcy and their refineries sold "on account of whom it may concern." Furthermore, they contend that there are a good many "shysters" engaged in the business; that they (the "bulls") have some of them at least in their power, and that they will be doing a good thing for the trade by "horning" them to death.

That there is truth in some, if not all of these allegations made against the "bears," I freely admit. That the "bulls" have received very shabby treatment at the hands of these "bears" during the past summer and fall, must be conceded. That there are some "scalawags" in the trade, that it would be as well, and perhaps better, for the trade if they were driven out of it, I am also willing to acknowledge. But, is the course taken by the "bull ring," the proper one to get rid of the evils above complained of? And even if they are successful, will the objects they claim to be aiming at be attained? That there are some honorable and honest men among the "bears," men who would scorn to do anything mean or dishonorable, even the "bulls" themselves will, I think, admit. Would it be right to cripple or ruin this latter class in order to crush the former? And yet the one must of necessity follow the other. There are men among the "bears" who sold "short" because they thought they could make money by so doing, that prices were higher when they sold than they would be at the time of delivery, and as these were men of honor and means, who were abundantly able to make good their part of the engagement, no matter how the market went, there was certainly nothing wrong in their doing what they did. Would it be right or honorable to cripple such operators as these for the sake of wiping out the so-called shysters? To make the innocent suffer as well as the guilty? And yet it appears to me that this will be the inevitable result in case the "bulls" are successful.

In regard to those operators who operate for the purpose of gain, who do not trouble themselves about loss, or who, in case the market goes against them, go into bankruptcy or "up the spout," I think that the sooner the oil trade is rid of them the better. But, then, I am not willing to admit these "shysters" are all "bears." It is probable that there are about as many on one side as the other.

Then, again, an outsider reading some of these "bull" articles would be almost led to believe that the term "bear" was synonymous with all that was mean and dishonest, while on the other hand they, the "bulls," had absorbed or monopolized all the morality and integrity in the trade. Now it may seem strange, yet we have reason to believe it, that all of the oil men connected with this "bull ring" have been "bears" time and again, and worse than that, they sold short, and that, too, largely, and while "short" said and did all they could to force and keep prices down, and some of them at least were very bitter against the "bull" movement which was attempted some two years ago, and which resulted, as it deserved, in a complete failure. Furthermore, some of these same parties, if my memory does not deceive me, were on one side, and some on the other, when the last "bull" movement was attempted, and the feeling then was just as bitter as it is now. This time, however, they are all in the same boat, and even yet they may not feel very kindly towards each other, personally, yet their interests are identical, and for the time being, at least, they may be regarded as "a band of brothers."

Personally, I have not a word to say against any one of the parties connected with the "bull" movement. With most, if not all of them, I have been on terms of intimacy for several years, and so far as my knowledge extends, they are men of honor, integrity, wealth and intelligence. But my opinion is, that they have made a mistake, a very serious one, and that some of them at least will come out of the "ring" with less money than when they entered it.

FAIR PLAY.

Sharpsburg Literary Matters, &c.

MESSRS. EDITORS: Although we cannot boast of having a Beecher, a Spurgeon, a Wendell Phillips, an Anna Dickinson, or even a Petroleum V. Nasby, yet the literary wants of our people are pretty well supplied. Last month Bishop Domenec, of your city, gave a lecture to a full house and attentive audience, who were well pleased. We Sharpsburghers are a grateful people, and hence our annual Thanksgiving will be offered by a union meeting of all the Protestant Churches of the place, in the Presbyterian Church at 11 o'clock A. M., on next Thursday, when the pastors of all the Protestant Churches will participate in the exercises. In the evening Prof. Wm. Evans, a converted tragedian, will give a Thanksgiving entertainment by way of reading and reciting some of the choicest pieces of English literature. As the Professor is one of the best readers of the day, he will no doubt have a good house and an appreciative audience. On Monday evening next, the choir of the Sixth avenue Church, of Pittsburgh, will give a concert in the U. P. Church of this place, for the benefit of the Sabbath School of said Church. Thus it will be seen that our literary tastes and wants are by no means neglected.

Their token of personal regard was gracefully presented and gracefully received. Long may both the chair and its worthy occupant grace the Allegheny station.

PETROLEUM NEWS.

More New Strikes—Increased Production—Another Big Well—Boiler Explosion.

The Titusville Herald says:

A thirty-five barrel well was struck on the Atchinson Farm, Upper Cherry run, on Friday last.

About ten days since a new well was struck on the Hayes Farm, the yield of which is thirty barrels daily.

On Monday a new well on the west side of Oil Creek, near McClintocksville, struck about a week previous and producing about twenty five barrels daily, commenced to produce at the rate of ninety barrels, and maintained that rate during the day.

A new well was struck on Saturday last on the tract of the Atlantic and Great Western Petroleum Company, Church Run, and on Monday was producing at the rate of above 125 barrels per day. It is but a short distance from the old "Eureka" well.

The boiler of the Carson and McDowell well, on the Pittsburgh and Cherry Run tract, exploded on Saturday night, tearing the engine house and derrick to pieces, but fortunately no person was hurt.

An Accommodating Genius.

In response to an advertisement in the GAZETTE yesterday for a sober, steady man of tact and energy, the advertiser received, among others, the following boni fide response. He should be secured at once:

"R.:" I have seen your advertisement in the GAZETTE and I think I can suit you to a "T." I can write sermons, or attend a baby; split rails, or teach navigation; practice medicine, or drive a cart; lead services in a prayer meeting, or play poker; take photographs, or, (if a friend asks me) a drink of whisky; live on one meal a week, or eat six times a day; can talk "sweet" to a customer, or knock him down; can run a life insurance office or a sewing machine; edit a newspaper, or pilot a steamboat; preach, or dig coal, &c., &c. With such a versatility of talent, (and the half is not* told), it must be a very intricate business that you require a man for, if I cannot comprehend it at a glance, and conduct it better than the man who invented it.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I am
Very Respectfully,
Your Obedient Servant.

—A Paris correspondent of the New York Times states that the refusal of the French Government to permit the landing of the shore end of the United States Continental Telegraph will cause the French authorities serious embarrassment. The question will be brought before the Corps Legislatif, and a fierce onslaught will be made on the system of espionage established over the postoffice and telegraph. All the American papers are subject to surveillance, and a copy of every telegraphic dispatch, whether in cipher or otherwise, is kept in the office of the Minister of the Interior. It will be impossible for the Government to resist the arguments for the removal of all further in interference with the freedom of postal and telegraphic communication.

—The New York Herald, of yesterday, reviews the question of specie payments, and says: Specie payment would prove a fiction and probably we should soon to suspend it again. The only safe course to pursue is to leave the currency alone, and to let the country grow up gradually to specie payments in accordance with the laws of nature and trade.

—The trial of Cornelius Kane, John Lynch, Edward Powers and John Mulvehill, for the murder of Patrick Mackey, on the 21st August last, at Huntingdon, Pa., was concluded yesterday. A verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree was rendered against the four defendants.

THE records of the United States Assessors' offices of the several districts in Illinois, show that there are upwards of five thousand practising physicians in that State.

NEARLY every farmer in Crawford county, Indiana, has raised a large crop of sorghum. They are busy now in grinding the cane. The frost has materially damaged the crop.

ENTERPRISING natives of Rhode Island now talk of working the coal and iron mines in that State, and Providence already indulges in the dream that it is to be the Pittsburgh of the East.

THE grand jury of Clinton county, Mo., at the recent term of the Circuit Court, indicted the Judges of the County Court for failing to publish "a detailed statement of the finances of the county."

THE case of Miss Kellog vs. Oliver P. Kent, action for $10,000 for breach of promise, was decided at St. Louis last week, the Court giving judgment for the amount, as the defendant did not appear.

THE jail of Washington county, Missouri, has been declared by the grand jury to be "an outrage upon enlightened humanity, and a means of inhuman torture to those who are compelled to remain therein."

THE first spike was driven on the Oregon Central Railroad, at Portland, on the 28th ultimo, Senator Williams and others making brief speeches on the occasion. The spike was driven by J. L. Parish, who went to Oregon in 1840, and who remarked on the changes wrought in that region since that time.

REPORTS gathered by the G. A. R. relief committee in Albany, New York, revealed a very much larger amount of suffering and destitution existing among the families of deceased soldiers than the citizens had any idea of. The papers publish the names and residences of the Ward Committees in order that cases not discovered may be brought to light.

THE public schools of St. Francis county, Missouri, have been very slenderly attended thus far. One teacher commenced on the 1st inst. with two scholars. On the 5th he had four, an increase of one hundred per cent. A further improvement is looked for as soon as the boys can be released from field labor.

ALL the Presbyterian churches in New York were crowded on Sunday last, to hear the remarks of the clergymen on the union of the New and Old Schools. The streets in front of Dr. Spring's and Dr. Hall's churches were filled with carriages, and the seats in the buildings were occupied long before service began. The speakers congratulated Presbyterians on the union, and hopes were expressed that there would be no dissension in the future.

IT has recently been decided in court that a man who keeps a savage dog, even in an enclosure of his own premises and for protection against thieves, keeps him at his peril, and must pay damages where harm is done. It is his negligence if another than a burglar is torn by his private wild beast. Such a decision is likely to have a good effect, as there is just now a disposition to cultivate gigantic and savage dogs.

IT is reported that unless the Secretary of the Treasury grants the request of Gen. Butterfield for an investigation into his official conduct, as Sub-Treasurer at New York, the latter will petition to Congress to order it. Butterfield has engaged rooms at Washington from the first of December until the end of the next session of Congress, and this occasions not a little talk among Eastern politicians, and many surmises are made as to what it means.

THE fourteenth annual game dinner of the Tremont House, Chicago, which is one of the best conducted hotels in the United States, took place recently. The bill of fare was immense, comprising one hundred different dishes, the great majority of which were rarest of game. The wine list embraced one hundred and thirty brands and varieties. Mr. J. B. Drake, the courteous host, knows abundantly well how to keep a hotel, and whether on grand, special occasions, or the ordinary, his abilities in this direction conspicuously shine forth.

Purviance, of Pittsburgh; Judge Thayer, of Philadelphia; Judge Taylor, of Huntingdon county, Pa. Selections will be made in about one week.

IN the New York City Supreme Court, last week, a case came on for hearing, involving another question under the marriage law. The complaint set out that plaintiff and defendant, some thirty years ago, in the presence of a witness, declared each other husband and wife, and desired the Court to adjudge that they were married. The case coming on for trial, defendant's counsel moved to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the Court could not grant the relief asked. The proper course was possibly by demurrer, but they had desired to have a full denial made to plaintiff's charges. The Court decided that it could not grant the relief asked on the facts stated. To do so would be to encourage adventurers to set up claims of marriage, and do great injury. If there were any wrong in this case it was clearly one without a remedy.

THE effects of Thayer's circus having been attached by creditors, at Cincinnati, and the property appraised, Mrs John Robinson interposed an objection in reference to a lioness and her three cubs, claiming that they were sold to Mr. Robinson, her husband, before the writ of attachment was issued. In order to commence a suit in replevin for this property, the lioness and her cubs, Mrs. Robinson (her husband being absent) was required to give bond in $20,000, that being double amount of the appraisement. She claimed, however, that the animals were not worth that amount, and, by attorney, asked that the appraisement be set aside, on the ground that the appraisers were incompetent, and that the appraisement was too high. Upon the hearing of the motion one of the cubs was brought into court and "offered in evidence." the Judge appointing a guardian ad litem. This lion, not unlike some lions in human form, was anxious to be seen and heard of men, and was continually growling his approbation of or disgust at the proceedings, as they seemed to please or displease him. From the fact that he left the Court room in a pleasant mood, it is inferred that he was well satisfied with the rulings of the Court, sustaining the appraisement.

OFFICIAL PAPER
Of Pittsburgh, Allegheny and Allegheny County.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 17, 1869.

U. S. Bonds at Frankfort, 89.

Petroleum at Antwerp, firm at 61¼f.

Gold closed in New York yesterday at 127.

The entire completion of the great bridge at Louisville is promised within the next four weeks.

The triple alliance of France, Austria and Russia means a check to the advancing influence of Prussia as a leading continental power, and the ulterior protection both of the French interests in the Suez Canal and of Russian designs upon that part of Asia which separates her present empire from the English possessions in Hindoostan. It is not at all improbable that the new project includes secret articles relative to the imperial succession in France, and to the interests of the respective parties in the early termination of the Turkish encampment in Europe or on either shore of the Bosphorus.

At a meeting, of the Senators and Representatives from the county of Allegheny, which was held yesterday in this city, it was unanimously and heartily agreed to support the re-election, by the ensuing Legislature, of our fellow-citizen, Hon. R. W. Mackey, as Treasurer of the Commonwealth. We may add that Allegheny has not hastened to give this expression to the cordial preferences of her citizens, of all her Republicans and of not a few of the most influential of the opposition, until there had come, from every quarter of Pennsylvania, a similarly unanimous attestation to the merit of a most competent and popular officer.

Explorations, under the direction of the Canadian authorities, have ascertained all the topographical features of another great lake, lying north and west of Lake Superior. This lake, known as Lake Nipigon, will rank in point of size with the other lakes of the chain. It is larger than Ontario, and but little, if any, smaller than Erie. Over 500 miles of its coast-line have been surveyed and mapped. It connects with Superior by the Nipigon river, which is but thirty miles in length. It is dotted with an almost countless labarynth of islands, and its shores present both a large area of fertile lands, and mineral districts of very great wealth. More detailed information will soon be laid before the world.

THE EQUALIZATION OF RAILWAY CHARGES.

We hear that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has appointed a Committee of Conference, to meet a similar committee of the merchants of Pittsburgh, to consider the alleged discriminations by that corporation which may be adverse to the business interests of this city. The conference is to take place at Philadelphia before the close of the next week.

It is perhaps superfluous to say that the action of the Company, in thus recognizing the just demands of our business men for a fair examination into the merits of their claims upon an equitable consideration in the matter of freights between this city and Philadelphia, is accepted, among all the customers of the corporation here, as a favorable omen for such an issue as shall remove the causes of past complaint. It is felt that there only need be a frank explanation on each side, and a mutually reasonable concession to the specific interests of each party, to ensure an amicable and satisfactory adjustment of present differences. We are quite sure that our merchants will ask nothing more than to be placed upon an equal footing with shippers from points to the west of us, over that railway. They do not feel that they are asking, in this, for what is unfair to either party, or for aught which can diminish the very handsome total of income derived by the corporation from the business of this city.

The proposed conference is to be the result, primarily, of the very intelligent and business-like proceedings of our grain shippers, who finding their business seriously impaired by discriminations in the freight tariff which appeared to be intrinsically unjust to our local interests, adopted a very sensible and business like method in making their objections known to the corporation. Instead of rushing into print, with columns of loud complaints or of windy invective against a "soulless monopoly," in some vague sort of faith that mere newspaper thunder would accomplish the desired practical reform, those gentlemen met together, agreed upon a statement of facts, and upon a clear exposition of what seemed to be due to their fair expectations, designated a working committee of their number to wait upon the proper representatives of the Company, and lay the case before them. We now have to welcome the natural result of a very rational movement. The Company is found now, as we think it has always been, quite ready to hear any business-like suggestions, and avowing its readiness to investigate the case and to be governed by its merits. The occasion will, moreover, be properly improved to consider the subject of the freight tariff in its peculiar bearings upon the general business of the city, with a view to the settlement of all the pending differences upon satisfactory and permanent basis.

It must be apparent, to all parties who may give an intelligent reflection to the subject, that it involves many collateral questions of an embarrassing nature. Nearly all of these will hinge upon the proper relations between competition with the trunk lines and the fair claims of either side in the adjustment of a merely local tariff. But we are confident that a satisfactory adjustment will be reached, provided each party shall come to the discussion with the same spirit which has mutually marked the negotiations up to this point.

SAN DOMINGO.

We annex a paragraph, from a Washington source, which very clearly explains the recent action of the President, in sending Commissioners to procure exact information upon the state of affairs and of the popular sentiment among the Dominicans. We may also premise that the public ship which left New York for the Bay of Samana last week, not only bore as passengers the confidential agents of the President, but did also take a considerable amount of military stores intended for fortifications and other land service. The vessel will remain at the Bay, without landing a man or a gun, until the Congressional sanction shall have been given to the proposed acquisition of that harbor. There can be no reasonable doubt that the President will [illegible] Congress, at the opening of the session, with recommendations in its favor that the present scheme contemplates the springing of this business upon Congress and the country, in the hope of rushing it through before the close of the first week. That is likely to be the game, and our naval forces, at anchor in the Bay, will be in position to take possession at once.

We may further add that the present acquisition of any American foothold on San Domingo, must prove, at least temporarily, fatal to the hopes of the Cuban propagandists. They will have to regret the clearest proofs that the American policy takes a direction very different from what they could wish. San Domingo will be, for years, quite enough to satisfy our ambition for any West Indian aggrandizement.

Says a dispatch:

The talk about San Domingo and its acquisition, which the Government is alleged to be now preparing for, has no more basis than the following facts: The desire for the establishment of a protectorate originated with President Baez himself, and Mr. Seward consented to use his efforts to induce Congress to grant the necessary authority. This he did quietly by posting the House Foreign Affairs Committee, in regard to the desire of San Domingo for annexation. Pending this matter, a direct proposition for annexation was received from Baez, but not acted upon, owing to the retirement of Mr. Seward. The protectorate proposition failed in the House, notwithstanding the able advocacy of Judge Orth, of the Foreign Affairs Committee, and a simple resolution passed the House calling upon the President to communicate to Congress as soon as convenient, all the information in his possession concerning the condition and resources of the Republic, and the reported desire of its Government and people for annexation to the United States. This will explain the mission of General Babcock to that Government, and on his return a few weeks hence, the President will be able to respond to the request of the House with the latest and fullest information.

DISUNION AND REUNION

The Philadelphia North American urges the importance of efforts to secure the restoration of the Southern branch of the church, upon the united Presbyterian Assembly, which will meet in that city next May. Says our very sensible cotemporary:

There is nothing now to divide these from the general fold of the Church, slavery being abolished and the rebellion crushed. We think it would be the part of wisdom for the new General Assembly to repeal all the enactments of former years, whereby the Southern synods were cut off, and thus throw wide open the door for them to return. The Church cannot be considered national until these sectional divisions shall all have been healed.

While the rebellion raged, the Church did perfectly right in maintaining a patriotic stand. Its influence in favor of freedom and nationality was strongly felt. But all that is at an end, and we cannot afford to fight the rebellion forever, after all its participants have submitted. Forgiveness is the noblest trait of humanity, and truly worthy of Christianity. Nor does it become us to ask that our forgiveness shall be received and recognized as such. It is quite sufficient if we so intend it, and it is quietly accepted and accomplishes its purpose. Anything beyond that is an unmanly effort at unnecessary humiliation of those who have suffered greatly already.

If we have any influence with the members of this great Church, we advise them earnestly to signalize their first united General Assembly by the repeal of their acts above alluded to, and the adoption of measures looking to the restoration of the southern churches. This will be something worthy of such an occasion, and its success would diffuse more real joy throughout the Church than the raising of the five million dollars thank-offering. Money can not buy back these southern Presbyterians; but conciliation, kind words and generous acts can. Nor do we think that the united Church ought to wait for these southern churches to seek admission. The northern churches cut them off, and the northern churches should now ask them to return, and do so, too, by the appointment of a regular committee to visit and address them. We are certain that such a course would meet with prompt and memorable success.

The Philadelphia Ledger says:

"The separation of the Presbyterian Church into the New and Old Schools, as they have heretofore been designated, occurred in this city on the 17th of May, 1838. There had been some differences in the Church, which finally resulted in the passage of a resolve by the General Assembly of 1837, 'that the Synods of Utica, Geneva, Genesee, and of the Western Reserve, are out of the ecclesiastical connection of the Presbyterian Church.' This act excited great feeling, and it had grown deeper and stronger until the time of the meeting of the General Assembly of 1838. That body met in the old Seventh Presbyterian Church building, which formerly stood in Ranstead place, Fourth, above Chestnut, and, after an exciting canvass for Moderator and other officers, two sets were chosen, and those who acted with the New School left the building and proceeded to the First Presbyterian Church building (Rev. Albert Barnes') on Washington Square. Many of our citizens remember the deep interest caused by these events, but many more have passed away. The old church building, which was the immediate theatre of them has passed away too, but the venerable Dr. Elliott, who was the Moderator of the General Assembly at the time of the separation, still survives, as also does the old building of the First Presbyterian Church. If the old Seventh Presbyterian Church had been standing, it would doubtless have been selected as the place of meeting for the first General Assembly of the reunited Church, but as it is the Assemblies in Pittsburgh did a fit and appropriate thing in choosing the First Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia as the place of meeting of the reunited Assembly, on the third Thursday in May, 1870.

GEOLOGY.

A Geological Expedition with Professor Dana to Stony Creek and the Thimble Islands.

(Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.)

New Haven, Nov. 6th, 1869.

Last Wednesday I accompanied Prof. Dana on a geological excursion to Stony creek and the Thimble Islands, and as few points on the New England coast are more interesting to the geologist, I propose to give you some particulars in regard to it. The party was chiefly composed of Seniors from the Scientific and Academical departments of Yale, and with them were Profs. Silliman, Gilman, Johnson, Brewer, Eaton and Verrill. Two cars had been engaged on the Shore Line Railroad for our accommodation, and, as it was desirable to reach Stony Creek at the time of high tide, 11 A. M., was the hour appointed for starting.

The weather for once did not disappoint us. The sky, though at first somewhat cloudy, soon cleared up and at the same time a strong breeze set in from the southeast and continued all afternoon and evening very favorable for sailing. On the way we had our attention directed to the sandstone cliffs and great quantities of glacial drift near Branford. A short ride brought us to the mouth of Stony Creek, which is about eleven miles and a half east of New Haven.

As soon as the train had left, Professor Dana took us for some distance on both sides of the railroad to examine the traces of glaciers on the granite rocks. These rocks had been worn smooth, in fact almost polished, and on the surface were distinctly to be seen scratches and furrows, all running in a direction nearly north and south.

These marks would, in all probability, have been destroyed long ago by the weather had it not been that the rocks were, until recently, covered with earth.

Standing upon a little eminence with a most attentive audience around him, Prof. Dana proceeded to give the facts and theories in regard to the transportation of large masses of rock and unstratified drift, which we had previously seen far from the formations to which they originally belonged. A little below the medium height, with rather sharply cut features, a grey eye, keen, yet kindly, a smooth face, hair somewhat long, and partly gray, plainly dressed, having on his head a brown felt hat with the brim turned up in front, a little nervous in his manner, yet one of the most active in the party, he seemed to be a perfect picture of the enthusiastic lover of nature and the perfect gentleman which real kindness of heart and quick perception always produce.

He first called our attention to the undeniable facts that rocks of great size and weight had been transported by some means for many miles to the south. They were frequently too large for us to suppose they had ever been moved so far by the action of water alone, and the drift we had seen while passing Branford in the cars, being entirely unstratified, showed that water did not do it. He then explained the two theories generally accepted, the Glacier and the Iceberg theory. While he admitted that icebergs might have carried some of the rock from the Connecticut shore to Long Island, and in other similar places, yet several facts convinced him that the greater part of the boulders on the Connecticut coast had been conveyed by glaciers. The fact that the scratches on the granite rock were always in one uniform direction, nearly north and south, showed almost conclusively that icebergs could not have made them, for they could not have moved in one straight line, but would been subject to constant changes of direction from various causes. Again, if we adopt the iceberg theory, we must suppose that water covered the country to the depth of several thousand feet, and as the icebergs could not pick up large masses of rock under them in the valleys we would naturally expect to find that these transported rocks were from the very highest peaks in New England. The very contrary is, however, the case, for these rocks are not those of the peaks, but those of the valleys. Here the iceberg theory fails. In a short lecture, made doubly interesting because he drew his evidence from the "testimony of the rocks" before our very eyes, Prof. Dana told us of the great extent of these glaciers and how the contraction of the earth and consequent elevation of the temperature had caused them to melt in the age just before the inhabitation of the globe by man. Then he said, "I hope you will all be free to ask questions. I shall answer them as far as I am able," and set out for a stone quarry situated between the railroad and the shore of the Sound. We soon came to the conclusion that he might as well have omitted the qualifying clause, "as far as I am able," for there seemed to be no rock of any description about which he could not tell some interesting facts.

When he reached the quarry he broke off some portions of the granite with his hammer and showed us its crystalline formation, how it was composed of mica, feldspar and quartz, spoke of the different kinds of granite and mica; then going down to the shore of the sound, he pointed out to us the gneiss rocks and told us how, though formed of the same materials, they yet differed from the granite in their schistose structure, that the mica was arranged in layers, which made the rock break very easily into slabs.

We noticed, also, the inclination in which the layers of gneiss were found, varying frequently as much as forty-five degrees from a horizontal plane and sometimes almost ninety.

Moving further along the coast we found the garnetiferous and the micaceous gneiss, the former abounding in garnets and the latter having an unusual quantity of mica.

Still further on we came upon mica schist, which is only another species of gneiss, containing less feldspar and more mica.

As the boats which were to convey the party to the Thimble Islands were not quite ready, Prof. Dana occupied the remaining time in speaking of metamorphic rocks and of the importance with which shells were regarded by the geologist. He pointed to a little hillock near by and showed us that underneath the sod and a thin covering of soil, there was a large bed of oyster shells. From charcoal and other things that have been found in this and similar beds along the coast, there is every reason to believe that this was once made by the Indians of this region, who undoubtedly lived to a great extent upon oysters. Just then a man shouted "The captain's ready and in a hurry to be off." A general scramble for the boats followed, and in a few minutes they were packed as full of passengers as they could possibly carry. A few minutes more and we were off, sailing under a magnificent breeze for Smith's Island, one of the large group which go under the general name of the Thimble Islands.

These islands, including all the rocks exposed at low tide, are probably two hundred in number, many of them quite large and furnishing a very pleasant retreat in warm weather, while in the fall there is plenty of duck shooting and fishing.

On arriving at Smith's Island we observed the beautiful wavy appearance on the surface of the gneiss, very much like that of marble and peculiar to this species of rock.

Then, going to the North-eastern side of the island, Mr. Smith, its owner, showed us a pot-hole about twelve feet deep and two feet in diameter. These pot-holes are not uncommon in this country, and are supposed to have been formed by a strong current of water passing through a crevice in the rocks and causing a violent movement of the loose stones within, which in course of time wore the sides of the crevice perfectly round and smooth. This pot hole is very remarkable, however, from the fact that there is no stream of water near it, and it is hard to conceive how there ever could have been one, for the hole, though at present full of rain water, has been drained dry and found to have a solid bottom. Another fact connected with it is, that the loose stones taken out of it are trap, and there is no trap foundation within several miles of the place. The trap was probably brought here by a glacier.

Passing round the island we found in the gneiss considerable quantities of magnetic iron, which adhered to a knife blade as iron filings to a magnet.

At the southern extremity of the island a large mass of rock has fallen into the water, leaving a place that at a short distance off has the appearance of an immense chair, and hence is called the "Giant's Chair."

A short distance from this spot, among some low bushes, we found another bed of oyster shells, undoubtedly made by the Indians. Some of the professors with very little trouble dug out a number of these shells, which were entirely different from the oysters now found about the Connecticut coast, some of them being nine or ten inches long and closely resembling those now found in the St. Lawrence river.

By this time nearly half of the afternoon had passed away, and none of the party having eaten any dinner, we began to feel quite hungry, and therefore set sail for Money Island, where Prof. Dana had made an agreement with some oystermen to furnish us with all the oysters, bread, butter and coffee we could store away.

This island derives its name from one of the many traditions in regard to Capt. Kidd's treasures, which were supposed to have been hidden here. Capt. Kidd, a New York shipmaster, your readers will recollect, was given command of a vessel fitted out by an English company against pirates, but afterwards turned pirate himself, and, having committed great depredations on the sea, was said to have buried considerable treasure in some uncertain locality, and burned his ship. He was finally arrested in Boston, sent to England with other pirates, and then tried, condemned and executed in the year 1699. It is not improbable that more money has been expended in searching for Kidd's treasure than he ever possessed.

When the boats touched land at Money Island, there was a fearful onset on the oysterman's house and provisions. In a few minutes we had completely exhausted his store of eatables, but a fresh supply soon arrived and for an hour science was left in the cold while we were satisfying the inner man. Two stoves were kept full of roasting oysters, and finding these insufficient, many persons built fires outside and roasted for themselves, while others devoured them raw. The professors showed that intellect was not necessarily injurious to appetite by doing a fair share in the work of destruction, and at the same time cracking jokes and telling stories in a manner which indicated that they could enjoy a good time as well as the rest.

After visiting a cave on the island, capturing a few starfish and noticing some fresh illustrations of facts already mentioned, we left for Pot Island to visit what is generally known as "Capt. Kidd's Punch Bowl". This is a modified form of the pot hole we have had seen on Smith's Island. It was about eighteen inches deep and had the form of a semi ellipsoid. After looking at this, Prof. Dana took us to a high lookout near the "Thimble Island House", where there was a fine view of the neighboring islands and the sound. Here he spent about half an hour in answering questions put to him by the students and in making remarks upon various subjects until the sun went down and darkness came over the island. Then scrambling over rocks and through thickets we once more embarked and with a strong wind behind and the stars shining brightly overhead the boats shot by the islands, curving, now this way, now that, to avoid the rocks, while nothing disturbed the stillness of the night, but an occasional song or peal of laughter from the students.

We were soon on shore again and a short walk brought us to the depot. A few moments more and an express train hurried us back to New Haven, feeling that we had never spent a day more pleasantly and certainly never more profitably.

The excursion excited an enthusiasm for geology which no amount of book study or lecturing could have produced, and at the same time an increased admiration for the mental and social qualities of the distinguished man through whose kindness we had been enabled to enjoy it.

SCOPULUS.

STATE ITEMS.

There are thirty slate quarries in Lehigh county, worth $2,000,000.

In Greenville, Mercer county, recently quite a number of burglaries were committed. The Argus thinks "the times are out of joint."

The Gloria Dei (old Swedes) Church, on Christian street, Philadelphia, is said to be the oldest place of public worship in Pennsylvania. It was built 170 years ago.

George Shannon, a Pithole forger, was arrested at Erie on the 10th, and the evidence against him was of such a character that he is held for trial in Venango county.

The reported shooting of Capt. West, in Crawford county, last week, is said to be a hoax, gotten up in order to allow him to escape from the oil country and his creditors.

The G. A. R., of Lewisburg, Union county, will open the new Music Hall in that place, on the 24th, on which occasion Hon Chas. Sumner is announced to deliver a lecture.

The project of the City Council of Philadelphia to purchase a tract of land on Tinicum, for the erection of a House of Correction, has been abandoned, after passing one branch.

In honor of the reunion of the Old and New School branches of the Presbyterian Church, a printing firm in Philadelphia hoisted a large blue flag with the word "Presbyterian" in letters of white.

A man in Pottsville offers a reward of $100 for the arrest and conviction of the person who spit on his daughter's dress on a certain evening, and $50 for the arrest and conviction of any tobacco-juice squirter detected spitting on any other lady's dress.

In a beer saloon at Reading last week Joshua Hiller, a moulder, aged twenty-eight, was fatally stabbed under mysterious circumstances, careful investigation having failed to reveal the murderer. An affray had occurred in which deceased was mixed up.

The District Attorney of Philadelphia has issued an order setting forth, among other things, that private counsel will not be admitted to represent the Commonwealth in cases of felony, or in the prosecution of charges against police officers or other public officers, without the special authority of the Court.

At Sewickley a lost boy has appeared, who gives his name as Joseph Eaton, and is unable to give any other account of himself, except that his father lives near a canal, at a place called Fairview; State not known. He is apparently eight or nine years old, and will be cared for till his friends are discovered.

On Sunday night, 14th, Robert W. Divine, aged twenty-six years, hung himself in Berks county prison. He was detained on a charge of deserting his wife, and left a letter reproaching her for her evil ways, stating that if she pursued them a self murderer's curse would follow her until they met again.

On Sunday night last Richard Eaglehardt, aged nineteen years, committed suicide by throwing himself on the track of the Lebanon Valley Railroad. He was in the employ of a farmer near Reading, and had made a desperate attempt to kill himself in the same way a short time previous. The act was superinduced by intemperate habits.

The Fairmount Park (Philadelphia) Commissioners propose to lay a telegraph line under the surface of the Park, through the Schuylkill and up to George's Hill, the wire to be covered with lead pipe as a protection. The experiment, if successful, will do away with objectionable telegraph poles, and in the end, perhaps, tend to their entire disuse.

The receipts of the Oil Creek and Allegheny River Railroad foot up for the past month $208,000, and for the past ten months the receipts were, from tonnage, express and mails, $1,487,016.40, and from passengers same time, $214,057.70—total for ten months, $1,701,074.10. The organization of the company took effect in March, 1868, and since that time ten per cent. dividends, clear of taxes, have been paid on the stock, besides the interest on the funded debt, and $250,000 of bonds and stock of the company purchased of the sinking fund. Over and above all this, the Company has a surplus of nearly two hundred thousand on hand, and no floating debt whatever.

A survey is now going on with a view of extending the line of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad through from the vicinity of Albion to Erie, thus avoiding a yearly rent of $40,000, and at the same time securing an Independent line from Erie to Pittsburgh. The Greenville Argus says: "Fears have been expressed by many that this survey was only a device to frighten the Lake Shore road into accepting a lower rent for the right of way over its track, between Erie and Girard, but we learn from excellent authority that the managers of the E. & P. road are satisfied that the Lake Shore will be eventually—and at no distant day—closed against them, and that the extension is an absolute necessity."

The Erie Dispatch tells the story that recently, in Warren, four young men "on a spree" determined to play a joke on Lon Morrison, a printer, whom they found helplessly drunk. They carried him to a stable, fixed a rope over a beam, stood him on a barrel so as to tie the rope to good advantage, and then kicked the barrel out from under him. Down he came with a jerk that for a wonder did not happen to break his neck, but left him hanging as scientifically as a Calcraft could have fixed him. The drunken crew got alarmed at his purpling face, and tried to lift him up, taking turns at raising him so as to take the pressure off his throat, and then letting him hang again while they rested themselves. This was kept up until the tumult attracted the attention of a passer by, who at once slashed the rope off. The victim of the murderous joke was so near strangulation that it was with the greatest difficulty that he could be resuscitated.

The grand jury of Berks county, while on a visit to the alms-house last week, made inquiry as to the case of a boy named Joseph Fallgate, and reported to the Court that they found him in one of the dark underground cells and talked with him through the grates. His feet were fastened together with straps around the ankles and a chain about eighteen inches in length connecting them. The present officers of the alms-house know very little about his history, as he was placed there many years ago, and was chained and kept confined for attempting to set fire to some of the buildings. The boy spoke rationally, but his mind seemed stinted and impaired. He appeared to be between sixteen and eighteen years of age, looked weak and delicate, his limbs shrunk for want of use. When asked how long he had been there, he said sixteen years, and that he had been chained for ten years. Evidently, he was not capable of a correct appreciation of the exact period. The jury thought the case of this boy called most loudly for the interference of the court, and were prompted by their feelings to inquire "Can nothing be done for him except imprisonment for life, and that imprisonment beginning in early childhood?" They, at least, could not see why he might not be placed in a room where he might have fresh air. Moreover, his confinement for so many years in chains, overlooked and forgotten, was a most shameful fact, which called loudly for thorough investigation.

On the evening of the 6th inst. a slight shock of an earthquake, accompanied by a noise resembling that made by a locomotive blowing off steam, was felt at Ironton, Iron county, Missouri. The oscillation felt lasted only a few seconds, though the noise continued for half a minute. This is the fourth or fifth shock felt there in the past six months.

Williams and Packer.

It is rather a singular coincidence, that two of the leading candidates for the State election in Pennsylvania, in 1869, were natives of the town of Groton, in New London county, Connecticut. Asa Packer is considerably the older man, and is of respectable parentage. He went West before Henry W. Williams did. The latter is a son of the late Deacon Warren Williams, of Cider Hill, now in Ledyard. Deacon Williams was son of Seth Williams, a patriot of '76. His wife, Betsey, was daughter of Christopher Gallup, also of the Revolutionary stock. This Betsey, mother of Judge Williams, with one daughter, still resides in Mystic, where Judge Williams has recently paid his annual visit. The city of Pittsburgh was fixed upon, as his permanent home, by Henry W. Williams, and his usefulness and popularity there are a part of its local history. The Norwich Courier, from which we gather the foregoing, says: Mr. Williams, although beaten by Judge Sharswood at the previous election, now runs ahead of his ticket, and will make a good Judge. Many of our readers, (its natives or descendants) will hurrah for old Groton—the Democrats on account of Judge Packer, and the Republicans on account of Judge Williams.

The State Department has late reports from Consul General Plumb. He represents that things in Cuba are tolerably quiet, that neither party has recently gained any material advantages, that the insurgents are a good deal demoralized, and that volunteers enlisted by the Spanish authorities are likely to give the Captain General some trouble, unless they are carefully managed. The Cuban junta is here in Washington in force, and the members are, as usual, nursing things for a recognition. They are very anxious to get out the idea that the President will come out strongly for them in his forthcoming message. There is the best of reason, however, for saying that he will insist that the insurgents have not yet done anything to entitle them to official recognition at our hands.

MALARIOUS FOGS.

Countless millions of cubic feet of malarious vapor reek from the moist earth every twenty-four hours during the month of November. This evaporated moisture is the active principle which begets fever and ague, bilious remittents, indigestion, dysentery, bilious cholic, rheumatism, and many other ailments which prevail more generally in the Fall than at other seasons, and some of which, in low, swampy regions and new clearings, take the form of virulent epidemic. The best safeguard against these complaints, as evidenced by the experience of a long series of years, is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, the most pleasant, and at the same time the most efficient of all vegetable tonics. The invigoration of the system is manifestly the best means of defending it against the causes of sickness, whether constitutional or casual. Nature, as every pathologist knows, is the most determined enemy of disease, and the paroxysms of an acute malady are in most instances the consequence of the efforts she makes to conquer the foe. The great objects, therefore, of preventive treatment is to reinforce the system, and it is accomplished thoroughly, rapidly, and safely, by the use of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS. This powerful tonic contains also an aperient and corrective principle. It is no less valuable as a regulator and purifier than as an invigorant, and there is no danger of exciting the brain or over stimulating the circulation by employing it as an antidote.

A LIMITED AMOUNT OF THE
7-40 GOLD BONDS,

Of the CHICAGO, DANVILLE AND VINCENNES RAILROAD are offered for sale by Messrs. W. BAILEY LANG & CO., Merchants, 54 Cliff Street, New York.

They are $1,000 Bonds, issued upon a Railroad nearly one-half completed, starting from Chicago and traversing a country unsurpassed by any in the first essentials of a large and profitable business.

They are secured by FIRST MORTGAGE on 140 miles of this first-class road, its outfit and all present and future acquired property of the Company.

They bear a high rate of interest for a long period of time—7 per cent. gold for 40 years—and a small ratio to the cash value of the Realty upon which they are issued.

They create an interest liability of the Company of only $1,246 PER MILE, or less than one-third that of some great roads of the country whose Bonds have ranked very high.

These facts, added to the safe-guards thrown around each and every Bond, combine to render these, UNEQUALLED SECURITIES, and really the most desirable in the market for investment.

Price 95 and accrued interest in currency, the right being reserved to advance, upon due notice.

Pamphlets, with maps and full detail, sent free on application to our Agents in Pittsburgh,

S. M'CLEAN & CO.,
75 FOURTH AVENUE.

Having personally examined this entire line of road, finished and projected, as well as the country through which it runs, we offer these Bonds with every confidence in their full worth and soundness.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, October 16, 1869.

PROPOSALS FOR MAIL LOCKS.

SEALED PROPOSALS for furnishing Mail Locks and Keys of new kinds, to be substituted for the Locks and Keys now used on the United States mails, will be received at this Department until 9 o'clock A. M., the 3d day of FEBRUARY, 1870. It is desirable to obtain Locks and Keys of a new construction for the exclusive use of the United States mails, and, if practicable, invented expressly for that purpose. As the exposure of a model Lock and Key to public examination would impair, if not destroy, its utility for the mails, the Department prescribes no model for bidders, but relies for its selection on the specimens of mechanical skill and ingenuity which a fair competition among inventors, hereby invited, may develop. It is sufficient to describe the principal requisites of a Mail Lock, as follows: Self-Locking uniformity, security, lightness, strength, durability, novelty of construction and facility of use. Two kinds of Locks and Keys, one of brass and the other of iron, different in exterior form and interior construction and arrangement, are required; and Proposals should specify separately the price of each brass Lock, each Key for the same, each iron Lock and each Key for same. Duplicate samples of each kind of Locks and Keys proposed, are required to be submitted with the Proposals; one of each sample Lock to be riveted up and finished, and another to be open or unriveted, so that its internal structure and arrangement may easily be examined. Every sample should be plainly marked with the bidder's name, and, if the same or any part of it be covered by a patent, the date of such patent and the name of the patentee must be also attached thereto.

The internal plan or arrangement of the Locks offered, and the particular shape of the Key requisite to open them, must not be like any now or heretofore in use.

They must be warranted not to infringe upon or conflict with any patented invention of which the bidder is not the patentee. Preference will be given to a Lock, the Key of which has not been exposed to general observation or been publicly described, disclosed or suggested.

A decision on the various specimens and Proposals will be made on or before the 3d day of MARCH, 1870; and unless the Postmaster General shall deem it to be for the interests of the Department to reject all the Proposals and specimens submitted under this advertisement, (a right hereby expressly reserved to him,) contracts will be entered into as soon thereafter as practicable, with the successful bidder whose Locks shall be adopted, for furnishing similar Locks and Keys for four years, as they may be required and ordered. If mutually agreed to in writing by the contractor and Postmaster General, for the time being, not less than six months before its expiration, the contract may be extended and continued for an additional term of four years. But on and after the expiration of either term of the contract, or on and after its rightful annulment at any time, the Postmaster General shall have the right to contract with or employ any other party to furnish the same, or any other kind of Locks and Keys; and if he shall deem proper to demand and receive from the late or defaulting contractor all finished or unfinished Keys and the internal parts of the Locks contracted for, and all dies, gauges and designs, (which would enable others to make or forge such Locks and Keys) in the possession of such contractor, who, after their surrender to the Department shall be paid for the same, at such price as may be ascertained by fair appraisement.

The contractor must agree and be able to furnish, if required and ordered, 20,000 Brass Locks and 3,000 Brass Keys within three months from the time of entering into contract, and 80,000 Iron Locks and 60,000 Iron Keys within ten months from such time. But the Postmaster General will reserve the right to increase or diminish, as the wants or interests of the service may demand, the quantities of the Locks and Keys above specified, with a proportionate allowance of time to furnish them.

All the Locks furnished by the contractor must be warranted to keep in good working order for two years in the ordinary use of the service, when not subjected to obvious violence; such as becomes defective within that time to be replaced with perfect Locks without charge. All the Locks furnished under contract are to be, each, distinctly marked "U. S. Mail," in either sunk or raised letters, and all the Keys are to be numbered in the natural order; each Key having its appropriate number distinctly stamped upon one side of the bow and "U. S. Mail" on the opposite side.

The contractor will be required to deliver the Locks at his expense at the Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C., put up on sticks, forming separate bundles of five Locks each, and securely packed in wooden boxes containing not more than two hundred Locks each. The Keys are to be delivered to an agent of the Department duly and specially authorized in each case, to take charge of and convey the same from the contractor's manufactory to the Department, where both Locks and Keys are to be inspected and approved before they shall be paid for.

The contractor will be required to give bond with ample security in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars, to be forfeited to the United States as liquidated damages, in case of his failure to faithfully perform the contract, either as to furnishing the supplies ordered within a reasonable time, or as to guarding the manufacture of the Mail Locks and Keys with due privacy, integrity and care.

No proposal will therefore be accepted if not accompanied with a bond of the penal sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars, duly executed by the proposed sureties, (whose responsibility must be certified by a Judge of a Court of Record nearest to their place of residence, attested by the Clerk of such Court under the seal thereof,) and conditioned for their becoming responsible as sureties on the required bond for the fulfillment of the contract, in case such Proposal shall be accepted. The manufacture of Mail Locks and Keys is, of necessity, a highly important and delicate trust, which the Department will confide to no bidder whose Proposals are not also accompanied with testimonials of good character.

In deciding on the Proposals and specimens the Postmaster General may deem it expedient to select the Brass Lock of one bidder and the Iron Lock of another. He, therefore, reserves the right of contracting with different individuals for such different kinds of Locks as he may select.

Proposals should be carefully sealed and addressed to the "Second Assistant Postmaster General," and endorsed on the envelope "Proposals for Mail Locks."

JOHN A. J. CRESSWELL,
Postmaster General.

DR. WHITTIER

CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL private diseases, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produces some of the following effects, as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.

A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.

It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.

The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases, that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.

The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays: 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE STREET, (near Court House,) Pittsburgh.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, November 16, 1869.

Gold remained very strong to-day, at from 127¼ to 127⅞, closing at 127⅝, with a firm tone and a disposition to advance quotations. The Government sold one million dollars of gold at about 127, and two and a half millions were bid for, showing an increased demand for cash gold importers for custom house purposes. Should the Government stop the sale of gold in December, a sharp and sudden advance may be reached.

Government bonds, on better gold quotations, improved to-day about one-half per cent. 10-40s which were dull at 107⅛, advanced to 107⅝. The demands for bonds were increased during the last ten days, while the offerings were light.

Stocks are strong and have advanced to-day about ½ per cent. The Vanderbilt shares advanced about four per cent. and point strongly for higher quotations.

Express and miscellaneous shares are also firmer on light business.

Money scarce, and business very dull.

(By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16, 1869.

Stock Exchange has been aroused some what from its lethargy, and speculation to-day assumed more buoyancy than for some time past. The advance in leading railway shares, especially Vanderbilt's, Lake Shore and North Western, is attributed to the operations of a "bull" party recently organized for the purpose of a campaign in the above shares.

At the executive meeting of the Gold Board this afternoon, a communication was received from Jacob Russell, Cashier of the Gold Exchange Bank, relative to the action of the Board yesterday. Mr. Russell said the Board of Directors had considered it expedient to disclose the names of those dealers who had failed to make their clearings on September 24th, other than the nine already given, as those dealers had since been ascertained to be good and solvent in regard to rule five, which ordains that none but full members of the Board shall be entitled to clear through the Bank. Mr. Russell requested a consideration since its adoption would expose the Bank to a charge of breach of faith with certain dealers. In the communication was the following report of the condition of the Bank: Cash on deposit in the Metropolitan Bank, $13,449,665; on deposit in the United States Treasury Company, $110,000; bills receivable, $25,969; New York State bonds with bank department, $11,000; 200 shares bank stock taken in settlement by receiver, $12,000; vault and fixtures, $15,000; fines and commissions due, $4,200; total, $302,596.05; claims as rendered by statement by U. N. Jordan, receiver, $171,000. Claims against bank in dispute, $53,000.

After the report was read a resolution was introduced to reconsider the action of the Board yesterday in restricting the privileges of the Clearing House to full members. This resolution was passed by a decisive vote. By its passage the Clearing House privileges are extended to those who have heretofore enjoyed them, including associate members, foreign bankers, &c.

The project of starting a Bank of Discount with large capital was much discussed to-day, and meets with favor among merchants.

Money active at 6@7 on Governments and stock collaterals. The demand for discounts continue; street rates 10 to 15 per cent. for prime double name paper, and 12 to 24 for single names. Sterling firm at 8½@9¼.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, November 16 1869.

The most important news we have to communicate to our commercial readers to-day, is that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, is at last disposed to give Pittsburgh a hearing in regard to the alleged discrimination by that Company against this city, and there will be a conference between the company and a committee of Pittsburgh merchants in Philadelphia next week. May we not hope that this conference will result in a full and satisfactory settlement of this much and long and complained of trouble, and that the authorities of that corporation will accede to the very fair and just proposition which will be made on behalf of Pittsburgh by the committee which will visit Philadelphia for that purpose.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, November 16, 1869.

The oil market continues exceedingly quiet and rather weak, with but little doing while in regard to prices there is but little change. The feeling both yesterday and to-day exhibited a weakness, with rather more inquiry to sell than during last week, and in some instances slight concessions have been made in order to effect sales. As has been the case for some time past, the market is in such an unsettled and excited condition that operators generally are not disposed to do anything, preferring rather to hold off and await further developments.

REFINED.

As already noted the market is unsettled and a little weak with some few sales, and that, too, at a slight decline, compared with last week. Sale of 1,000 bbls November at 35; subsequently, 1,000 same month at 34¾. December quoted at 34@34¼; December to March at 33¾; and January to March 33 bid. From all that we can learn, there is no truth in the rumor which was circulated last week, that a large proportion of the November and December contracts had been settled on a basis of 36 and 36½ cents.

CRUDE.

The crude market, also, continues rather quiet and a little weak, with next to nothing doing, while in regard to prices there is no material change. Spot it still held at 17, but there are very few buyers; seller November, 16⅛@16¼; seller this year 16 and buyer 17. It was reported that there had been offers to sell seller December at 16.

RIVER NEWS.

The river as yet, has not been influenced much by the the recent soft weather, but after the mixture of rain and snow which fell yesterday, we think it safe to predict a rise of two or three feet within the next forty-eight hours. The Monongahela marks only indicated about 25 inches last night—mercury at 4 P. M., 35.

There has been no arrivals or departures aside from the slackwater packets.

The Sallie has a sign up for Cincinnati and Louisville, and the Glendale for St. Louis, Messenger for New Orleans and Mollie Ebert, for Cincinnati, will, depart on the first rise.

Capt. W. S. Packer of the coal tug Dick Fulton, arrived here from New Orleans on Monday night.

—The Bellevernon is enroute from Cincinnati to New Orleans.

—The Leonidas left New Orleans for the Ohio river on Saturday.

—The St. Marys is now engaged in the Cincinnati and Portsmouth trade.

—The Emilie La Barge is returning from New Orleans to St. Louis, the water in Red River being too low for her.

—Capt. John Greenough, recently of the St Louis steamer Mary McDonald, is expected here on a visit to his numerous friends in day or two.

—The following are the receipts at St. Louis of leading articles during the past week: 34,635 barrels flour, 224,121 bushels wheat, 99,518 bushels oats, 34,183 bushels barley, 4,381 pigs lead, 2,558 head of sheep.

—The Government contract for carrying the Upper Mississippi River Mail Express expires next Monday, the 15th inst. After that, towns remote from railroads will receive their mail matter by slow and easy stages weekly, or oftener.

—Chas. H. Merry proposes that if the merchants of St. Louis will raise $200,000, he will build a first-class screw steamer, to run between St. Louis and New York. He will add $50,000 more, guaranteeing that a steamer of 2,500 tons, drawing ten feet water, will make the trip to New York in ten days.

—On Friday, between 1 and 2 A. M., while the Camelia was in the act of landing at Maysville, the Annie Laurie, also bound down, collided with the Camelia, cutting through her guard. Her hull was not injured, and $30 or $40 will repair the damage. Captain W. H. Dorsey was at the wheel of the Camelia, and Phil. Dodridge at the wheel of the Annie Laurie. The matter will undergo an examination before the Local Inspectors.

—The Louisville (Ky.) Courier says: Judge Stites of the Common Pleas Court overruled the demurrer in the case of damages in the suits against the Mail Line for loss of life by the disaster of December last, laid at $70,000 and decided that the Court has no jurisdiction, and the cases will be tried on their respective merits in the said court. The obstruction in the Indiana chute will be removed in about ten days.

—The Pine Bluff Republican says: "The Arkansas is yet at Carson's Bar waiting for a rise before moving. The Importer is at the Shepherd place, nine miles below here. The officers of both of the above named packets pay our city an occasional visit. John Bird, of the Importer, and Aleck McConnell, of the Arkansas, are gaining enviable reputations with double-barrels in ducking. Aleck brings down a brace every shot, and John is not far behind in—picking them up."

—A correspondent writes from New Orleans: "There appears every prospect of the freighting business being overdone in the South this year, there being a plethora of boats and still rushing here in shoals from the Ohio, Kanawha, Tennessee, and every other river. Freights are very low, with a good deal of competition that promises to bring them still lower before the season is over. Almost all the St. Louis boats here are losing money, and wish themselves safely tied to their own wharf. Red River rates are two thirds less than from St. Louis and freight in all directions very scarce. Some of the weaker brethren will have to go to the wall."

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC AND MANDRAKE PILLS will cure Consumption, Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, if taken according to directions. They are all three to be taken at the same time. They cleanse the stomach, relax the liver and put it to work; then the appetite becomes good; the food digests and makes good blood; the patient begins to grow in flesh; the diseased matter ripens into the lungs, and the patient outgrows the disease and gets well. This is the only way to cure consumption.

To these three medicines Dr. J. H. Schenck, of Philadelphia, owes his unrivaled success in the treatment of pulmonary Consumption. The Pulmonic Syrup ripens the morbid matter in the lungs, nature throws it off by an easy expectoration, for when the phlegm or matter is ripe a slight cough will throw it off, and the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To do this, the Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pill, must be freely used to cleanse the stomach and liver, so that the Pulmonic Syrup and the food will make good blood.

Schenck's Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, removing all obstructions, relax the ducts of the gall bladder, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved; the stools will show what the Pills can do; nothing has ever been invented except calomel (a deadly poison which is very dangerous to use unless with great care,) that will unlock the gall bladder and start the secretions of the liver like Schenck's Mandrake Pills.

Liver complaint is one of the most prominent causes of Consumption.

Schenck's Seaweed Tonic is a gentle stimulant and alterative, and the alkali in the Seaweed, which this preparation is made of, assists the stomach to throw out the gastric juice to dissolve the food with the Pulmonic Syrup, and it is made into good blood without fermentation or souring in the stomach.

The great reason why physicians do not cure Consumption is, they try to do too much: they give medicine to stop the cough, to stop chills, to stop night sweats, hectic fever, and by so doing they derange the whole digestive powers, locking up the secretions, and eventually the patient sinks and dies.

Dr. Schenck, in his treatment, does not try to stop a cough, night sweats, chills or fever. Remove the cause, and they will all stop of their own accord. No one can be cured of Consumption, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Catarrh, Canker, Ulcerated Throat, unless the liver and stomach are made healthy.

If a person has consumption, of course the lungs in some way are diseased, either tubercles, abcesses, bronchial irritation, pleura adhesion, or the lungs are a mass of inflammation and fast decaying. In such cases what must be done? It is not only the lungs that are wasting, but it is the whole body. The stomach and liver have lost their power to make blood out of food. Now the only chance is to take Dr. Schenck's three medicines, which will bring up a tone to the stomach, the patient will begin to want food, it will digest easily and make good blood; then the patient begins to gain in flesh, and as soon as the body begins to grow, the lungs commence to heal up and the patient gets fleshy and well. This is the only way to cure Consumption.

When there is no lung disease and only Liver Complaint and Dyspepsia, Schenck's Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills are sufficient, without the Pulmonic Syrup. Take the Mandrake Pills freely in all bilious complaints, as they are perfectly harmless.

Dr. Schenck, who has enjoyed uninterrupted health for many years past, and now weighs 225 pounds, was wasted away to a mere skeleton, in the very last stage of Pulmonary Consumption, his physicians having pronounced his case hopeless and abandoned him to his fate. He was cured by the aforesaid medicines, and since his recovery many thousand similarly afflicted have used Dr. Schenck's preparation with remarkable success. Full directions accompany each bottle, making it not absolutely necessary to personally see Dr. Schenck, unless patients wish their lungs examined, and for this purpose he is professionally at his Principal Office, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He is also professionally at No. 32 Bond street, New York, every other Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover street, Boston, every other Wednesday. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents a box. For sale by all druggists.

A Fight.—Jacob H. Gross and John McClure, residents of the South Side, got into an altercation yesterday, when the latter it is alleged knocked Gross down. Information was made before Justice Heisel charging McClure with assault and battery. A warrant was issued.

Stone Throwing.—Ann Braclet alleged before Alderman Shore yesterday that James White, a "weny malicious boy," had been annoying her family by throwing stones through the dining room window while they were at meals. The Alderman issued a warrant for the arrest of the boy.

Lawrenceville is a quiet place. It has furnished but four cases for the magisterial consideration of Deputy Mayor Nichols since Sunday. They had all been undulging in the "flowin bowl" and allowed the bowl to flow too much. Thirty dollars flowed from the pocket book of each, which secured a release.

Disorderly.—H. Schneilback made information before the Mayor, yesterday, charging Wm. I. Lee with disorderly conduct. He alleges that the accused came into his saloon and acted in a disorderly manner. James Smith also made information, at the same time and place, charging Lee with assault and battery. Both cases were compromised.

Committed for Twenty Days.—Daniel Jenkins was arrested at a saloon in the Twelfth ward, on Monday evening, on a charge of disorderly conduct, and taken to the Twelfth ward Station House, where he remained until yesterday morning, when he was brought before the Mayor, who, after hearing the case, imposed a fine of $10 on Jenkins, who, in default of payment, was committed to jail for twenty days.

Assault and Battery.—John Robinson and Jacob Stemler, residing in Birmingham, while in conversation yesterday, quarreled, whereupon Stemler, it is alleged, attempted to convince Robinson of the correctness of his opinion by knocking him down. Robinson was not convinced, however, and appealed to Justice Salisbury, who issued a warrant for the arrest of Stemler on a charge of assault and battery.

A Knock Down.—Frank Buchanan and Henry Pitt, while indulging in numerous glasses of teutonic beverage in a saloon on the South Side, yesterday, disagreed about some small matter and got into an altercation which terminated in a knock down, in which Pitt came off victor. Buchanan was not satisfied with the result, and appealed to Justice Salisbury, charging Pitt with assault and battery. A warrant was issued.

Desperate Attempt at Mail Robbery.—Last Friday as one of the mail carriers on the route between Pittsburgh and Steubenville, was passing along the pike between the above mentioned places, he was attacked in a place known as "Short's Woods," near Shirland, and a desperate struggle ensued. One of the carrier's hands was badly cut, but he succeeded in keeping possession of the mail bag and driving off the would-be robber.

Concert.—A grand musical concert will be given in U. P. Church, Noblestown, on Thursday evening, the 18th inst. The simple announcement that that great "singist" and teacher of music, Prof. S. J. Byers, will lead the concert is sufficient to bring out a crowd. The Professor never does anything by halves, and never gets up anything but No. 1 concerts; and the people of Noblestown, Oakdale, Havelock and Nebo understand this and will turn out in goodly numbers.

Grape Culture.

We make grateful acknowledgment for samples of very delicious Catawba, Diana and other grapes, sent us by Mr. W. P. Marshall, of this city, from whom we learn that they were grown upon the lands of the Dover Bay Grape and Wine Company, situated some ten or twelve miles west of Cleveland, on the shore of Lake Erie. Of 210 acres belonging to the Company, 73 acres were in bearing this year, from which 70 tons of grapes were gathered and sold. As the vines advance in age, the yield will increase, but even without such increase, the crop of the estate, when the whole shall be in bearing, will exceed two hundred tons per annum, and be worth about $25,000 before conversion into wine. This is one of many indications that vinous beverages are destined to become nationalized, and alcoholic, to be denationalized. Amen!

Divided the Money.

Some time since we stated the Hope Company, of Allegheny, in anticipation of the Paid Fire Department had [illegible] the money in the Treasury. [illegible] the passage of the recent ordinance establishing the department by the Common Branch of Councils, another company has followed suit. We are informed that on Monday night the members of the "Gen. Grant" held a meeting and made a similar disposition of the funds in the Treasury, amounting to about $1,200. It is also proposed to dispose of the property in the engine house, individually. The other companies are expected to do likewise. What remains will then belong to the city, and no difficulty will arise in the settlement of any claims by the change in the system. It is, perhaps, the most equitable and best plan to adopt, and cannot but be satisfactory to both sides. The Paid Department system has met with unqualified favor among the "boys," not [illegible] whom, so far as we could learn, [illegible] against it.

Great Bargains in Millinery.

Mrs. Robb, the fashionable and popular milliner, No. 91 Federal street, Allegheny, who enjoys the very highest reputation in her line of business, announces elsewhere this morning extraordinary bargains, which defy competition and which merit the attention of the economical. Look at the figures: Fifty cents will buy a velvet hat; one dollar will buy a velvet hat trimmed with a English plume; ten cents will buy a pair [illegible] bracelets; one dollar will pay [illegible] frame, lining and making a velvet [illegible], old or new. Fall suits for ladies [illegible] made to order and handsomely trimmed at from five to six dollars. Hat frames are sold at ten cents. These figures will give the reader an idea of the great bargains prevailing at this [illegible] class retail millinery house, and [illegible] readers should not fail to pay a [illegible] visit. Mrs. Robb is a lady [illegible] worthy patronage, and we [illegible] for her that large share of [illegible] her energy and enterprise warrant.

AU BON MARCHE!

A Fashionable Era Marked—Opening of the "Good Value" Millinery Establishment, No. 101 Market Street—Fine Exposition of Fresh and Fashionable Goods—Great Attraction for the Ladies.

Pittsburgh is assuming gradually, all the proportions, characteristics and attributes of a metropolitan city. Despite the gloominess of our atmosphere, the confirmed and incessant industry of our people, and the coursing in our body, as a community, of an arterial vein of religious strictness and austere morality, we still manage to keep pace with the age, and progressively develop as rapidly in all directions as contemporary municipalities. A love for the fine arts, a taste for literature, a devotion to genius and a rigid loyalty to "Dame Fashion" are a few of the more prominent indexes or signs of our breaking away from the old fogy ideas and notions which made our city conspicuous a few years ago. Indeed, just in proportion as the people advance in fashionable matters they mentally, socially and morally improve. Hence it is with great pleasure we announce that in this direction yesterday was marked an era by the opening to the inspection of the public at No. 101 Market street, one of the finest, neatest and best appointed millinery furnishing establishments west of New York; and the elaborate golden sign placed over the entrance, "Au bon marché" [Good value] is significant of the business system inaugurated, and develops the policy of the enterprising proprietors in the selling of superior goods at prices as reasonable and inducing as possible. The store rooms are fitted out in most elegant manner and stand in strange contrast with the dingy, dirty and shabbily furnished little stores where our mothers were wont to repair to select goods in the same line, or to take their accustomed lessons in varying fashionable matters. The house is itself an old one, but painter, carpenter, paper hanger and upholsterer have converted it into one of the cosiest and most palatial of our business establishments, and we can imagine no place more attractive or inviting.

THE STOCK.

The "Au bon marche" opens with one of the largest and most judiciously assorted stocks of millinery goods ever exposed for sale in this city. The purchases were made with a view of meeting the full demands and expectations of the trade, and the visitor to the house will be singularly impressed with the variety and extent of the stock, which embraces important novelties never before introduced here. We feel that it is only a question of time for the "Good Value" house to attain a first and foremost position in the estimation of the purchasing community. The visitor will find ribbons of all grades, qualities, colors, widths and varieties, BRIDAL VEILS AND SETS, bonnets and hats in every style to suit the tastes of purchasers. Artificial flowers direct from Paris, which vie with the natural floral beauties of the garden, magnificent bonnet silks and satins, bonnet trimmings, orange wreaths, boquets and all other descriptions of goods peculiar to the millinery business, including buckles, buttons, fruit imitations, birds, plumes, and the other items so familiar to our wives and daughters. The wholesale and retail departments are presided over by courteous and accommodating ladies and gentlemen, and we earnestly urge and advise our readers to bestow a liberal share of their patronage on this new and model house. A visit will satisfy the most exacting that the opening of such a first class establishment marks a new era in the millinery business of the city.

Imposing Wedding.

Last evening, at half-past seven o'clock, a brilliant wedding was consummated at the Synagogue on Eighth street. Miss Paulina, the highly gifted and accomplished daughter of L. Heilbroner, Esq., was united in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. Emanuel Weiler, of this city. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. Naumburg in his usual impressive manner. He made a few brief remarks in regard to the solemnity of the occasion. The bride was accompanied to the altar by Mrs. W. followed by the bridesmaids and groomsmen in the order prescribed by their customs.

The bride was handsomely attired in a white Rep silk with Empress trail and low corsage, with orange blossoms tastefully arranged in her hair, and wore a white illusion veil. She was attended by six bridesmaids in the following order: Miss Paulina W——, who wore a white crape de spang dress and lace overskirt, wearing white kids and hair ornamented with flowers. Miss Henrietta W—— was attired in a white alpaca, with satin overskirt and basque. Miss K—— S—— wore a white puffed swiss, with Valencia lace bertha. Miss O—— R—— was dressed in a white swiss flounced. Miss P——d was attired in a white swiss, and all wore white kid gloves.

The groom and groomsmen dressed in good taste, the former wearing black dress coat, black pants, white vest and gloves. The groomsmen were similarly dressed. After the interesting ceremonies were concluded the friends and invited guests repaired to Turner Hall, on Sixth avenue, where a grand ball was inaugurated. The supper on the occasion, was gotten up regardless of expense and afforded general satisfaction. After the cloth was removed, eloquent impromptu speeches were made by Rev. L. Naumburg, Professor Cohen, Professor Newall, and Messrs. Purviance, Jonas, Murray, Pittock and others, after which the party returned to the ball room and the festivities were kept up till near the morning dawn. We would be pleased to describe some of the dresses worn by the ladies, but as nearly all were tastefully attired it would be not only impossible but unfair to particularize any one. The bride and groom were the recipients of some very handsome and valuable presents, amounting in value to over twenty-five hundred dollars. The happy couple left on the early morning train, intending to make an extended bridal tour through the eastern cities. We wish them much pleasure, long life and prosperity.

Mysterious—Very!

East Liberty was the scene of a mysterious circumstance Monday. The particular locality was a dwelling house near police headquarters. The time about three o'clock in the afternoon, and of course broad daylight. The details are very singular. About the time designated, it is said, a seedy looking man, apparently thirty five years of age, and, from the description, not unlike Jean Valjean, entered the house through the front door, carrying a large bundle with him. He proceeded immediately up stairs, took possession of one of the bedrooms by locking the door. The ladies about the house, as was natural, were frightened beyond measure at this singular apparition, but, after recovering somewhat, managed to secure the services of a couple of the male sex who happened to be passing at the time. The gentlemen reconnoitered the premises, and finally brought an eye down to the keyhole of the door, from which a survey of the interior of the room could be obtained. There was nothing startling there. Only the man was observed standing in the centre of the room and quietly disrobing. His seedy garments soon gave place to a handsome suit of broadcloth. The seedy garments were carefully wrapped up in a newspaper, and the mysterious stranger emerged from the room. In answer to inquiries he only replied, that he wished to change his clothing and being a stranger in the land, thought this about the best method to adopt. He was allowed to depart. In passing out of the yard, he threw the bundle under a porch and then rapidly disappeared. Subsequent examination of the discarded garments revealed a mystery, all of them were stained with blood. Not small spots but great blotches as though the owner had been in a bloody business. It seemed fresh too which only deepened the mystery. They were gathered up and carefully preserved, as a relic we suppose. So runs the story.

Organ Concert.

The Organ Concert and exhibition of the new organ at the First English Evangelical Lutheran Church, Seventh avenue, last evening, was a rich treat to the lovers of fine music. The programme comprised selections from some of the leading composers of both vocal and instrumental music. Mr. C. C. Mellor, Prof. James Giles and Mr. H. Knauff presided at the organ, and Mrs. C. C. Mellor and Miss Benham in vocal duettes and solos. The organ was built by Messrs. H. Knauff & Son, and for its size is beyond question the finest instrument in the city. The instrument is comparatively small, having a front of only 12 feet, a depth of 8 feet, and being 13 high; but for sweetness, richness and fullness of tone, it is a model instrument. There is one feature connected with Knauff's instruments which gives them an advantage over all others, and that is the perfect combination of the soveral stops, each giving power and volume to the other. We regret that a want of space prevents a more extended notice of this model instrument.

"THE BYRON MYSTERY."

Lecture Last Night—Views of an Englishman—A Few Points Additional—What Justin McCarthy, Esq., Says.

Last evening, Justin McCarthy, Esq., late editor of the London Morning Star, lectured at the Academy of Music on "The Byron Mystery." The audience in attendance was not as large as had been anticipated, which was owing to the exceedingly disagreeable state of the weather, and perhaps in a measure to a fear on the part of some of our lecture goers that the delicate subject might not be treated in a manner void of offense. If such an idea were entertained, it was altogether a mistake, for rarely has a subject engrossing the attention of the literary world been handled with more delicate tact, or consummate scholarly ability than this "mystery" in the hands of Mr. McCarthy. Those who did attend and thus placed confidence in the reputation of the distinguished lecturer, were amply repaid in the enjoyment of one of the finest literary treats of the season. The audience, however, though not as large as, under other circumstances it would have been, fully made up in quality what it lacked in quantity, and was one of the most appreciative we have ever seen gathered at the Academy.

At eight o'clock Captain McLanahan introduced the lecturer, who commenced by saying that the title, "Byron Mystery," given to his lecture was not of his own choosing, but he thought it very appropriate. The "mystery" this strange affair would ever be, the physcological mystery of the age. He hoped to prove in his remarks that there was, however, not so much in it as had been thought, and especially that the statements made by Mrs. Stowe in her article had not an atom of foundation in fact. That it was a mere tissue from an addled brain, and disproved and unsubstantiated by the facts of history. He admitted that, as some had said, this matter should never have been stirred up. It had laid quiet for years. It was of no special importance as an essential fact in history. But it was not for those who thus talked to answer the question why it was unearthed. Since it had come up, the responsibility, the unenviable notoriety, was for those who were instrumental in exhuming it. It should now be investigated, rigidly and thoroughly, first because of the fame and genius of the man with whom it was connected and then in behalf of the movements with which he was associated. The statement had been made and the slander should be refuted. Byron was one of the greatest, if not the greatest English poet of his age. He was the poet of freedom and of humanity. In contrast with him all the others of his day were but as servants bound to a master. There were many and bright names on the roll of fame of that day, but none like him had discarded the fashionable ideas and movements of the times to assert his own independence and favor the rights of humanity. Many movements and many ideas which had gained since his day had been strongly advocated by him long before they had become at all fashionable or popular. In fact throughout his whole career, whatever might be his other failing, these prominent characteristics were developed, his great zeal in the cause of freedom everywhere and his intense love for the rights of man. It then became a duty of those whom he had favored, and of all who loved fair play, that his side of this dark story should be heard and his name relieved of that dark stain which, otherwise, would blot it forever. Posterity should never have such a stigma handed down to it, unless the facts were proven and the vile crime clearly shown.

The lecturer then stated, that in order to view the matter fairly it would be necessary to briefly review Byron's life, in doing which he referred to the peculiar position as the centre of attraction of the literary world at the time of his marriage, as the hero of the day—the most talked of, one of the most gifted, the most envied man of the time. In an evil hour, with such a position, he had wed Miss Millbank. Of her nothing could be said up to the revelations which had but recently been developed by her would-be defenders and friends. No fault could be found with her, and it was thought that nothing but happiness could be the result of such an union. But the result did not justify these expectations. Almost the first day of wedlock dissimilar traits, if their character began to be manifested, and that "settled aversion," as it was put, was seen. Byron seemed to have regretted the mariage before the first day of the honeymoon was over. In looking for an answer for this peculiar change, it was seen in the characteristics of the two. Lady Byron seemed to be of a staid, reflective, serious disposition, kind hearted and disposed to mature early. Byron seemed just the reverse, eccentric, disposed to treat the world with scorn, and to make himself appear a villain deeper than he really was. Her's all seriousness, his all levity, with a disposition to distort his good qualities, and make appear worse his bad ones.

As might be expected, their union was short, and a year after their marriage day, just following the birth of their first child, she left his house, and went to her father's, but at the time never spoke of the separation as final nor mentioned it as such to her parents. The next day after she wrote him a letter full of tenderness and love. Leigh Hunt saw it and thought it only such a letter as a loving wife could write. No mention was made in it to the separation as final, but the day following another letter was sent in which this fact was intimated. She then told her parents.

She declared she could not live with her husband. Stated she first thought him insane, but subsequently changed her opinion. Finding her inexorable, her parents consulted a lawyer, Dr. Lushington, then a young man, just commencing his practice. What representations were then laid before him was not known, but his opinion was that the husband had done nothing to warrant a separation. The answer was given to Lady Byron, but she still persisted, and then the strange disclosure was made to him by her, of the reason of her persistence, and the secret which the modest woman could not communicate to her own parents, was thus revealed to a young man, who was made her sole confidant. Under such circumstances Dr. Lushington gave the letter to her parents, recommending the separation, but refusing to disclose the reasons given, and here hinges the mystery.

The lecturer, after thus rapidly reviewing the salient points of the separation, spoke of the great aversion it created against Lord Byron, causing him to leave England, to which he never again returned. The revulsion of feeling after his death and the final raking up of the story after it had been hushed up for many years. He then took up Mrs. Stowe's article and proceeded to answer it by arguments and facts of peculiar force, of which the substance is given first in the letters of Lady Byron to Agusta, Lord Byron's sister, written at the time of the separation, in which she constantly speaks of her as her "my dear friend:" one whom she will always love, whom she has always regarded with the highest esteem, and as one whom she is rejoiced is to take possession of Lord Byron's household after the separation, and hopes the change will make no difference with them. Next the great love of Lord Byron for his sister, the one great feature of his character was referred to, and passages from his writings given in support of this. Lady Byron's subsequent recitals of three different statements as the cause of the separation, made at different times and each distinct from the rest, was against the crime charged. Then again the representatives for Lady Byron and Lord Byron had met, to arrange the separation, when this specific charge, as made by Mrs. Stowe, was made by his representatives, to be proven or retracted, when it was promptly retracted by her representatives. Her subsequent actions, in making confidantes of all who would listen, to the recital of her supposed wrongs, were also in direct contrast with her pretended secrecy, of the cause of the separation.

These as the main points, with others already rehearsed and well known, were examined at length by the lecturer, and supported by facts and proofs, which seemed overwhelming and unanswerable. He closed his remarks after speaking for about an hour, with a very caustic review of Mrs. Stowe's reason for raking up this scandal, and an earnest and eloquent appeal in behalf of the much injured Byron, whom he characterized as "in many respects not a bad man, and in almost every way a great man."

The lecture was of unusual force and vigor and left a fine impression of the lecturers peculiar abilities, upon all who heard it, none of whom left the hall unsatisfied with the entertainment or in any manner disappointed.

The next entertainment of the G. A. R. Course will be given Wednesday evening, November 24, by Mrs. Frances M. Carter, a lady bearing a high reputation for elocutionary abilities.

New Safe Manufactory.

Messrs. Reisick and Bro. so long and favorably known for the superiority of the machines manufactured at their works have recently, added to that department a new branch, the manufacture of fire proof safes. One of the firm, for a number of years was engaged with Messrs McNeal & Co. of Cincinnati, who have one of the largest safe establishment in the country, and while there became a thorough master of the business. He now takes charge of that department in their own works, where his experience and practical acknowledge of the business can be made available. The style of safe is exactly after the pattern of these manufactured at Cincinnati, and with which the Treasury Department at Washington is supplied. They are perfectly dry, being filled in with a cement instead of plaster of paris as the custom is, and which keeps the interior of the safe always damp. None but the best material is used, and that is made heavier than generally used. Attached to each is the patent combination lock which is claimed to be burglar proof, the inventor offering a thousand dollars to any man who can pick it open. One important feature in these safes is that the lining box is made of iron instead of wood, thus increasing the thickness of the safe at least one inch, and of course rendering it that much more secure.

The workmanship is of the best quality, and the safe, externally and internally, is finished off in an ornamental and handsome style. Altogether, the firm may well lay claim to an article which is fully equal to anything of the kind manufactured. They have already manufactured a large number and sold to our merchants and others from a distance. One of the safes has just been purchased for the Ben. Franklin Insurance Company and was put in place Monday afternoon. It speaks for itself, and is really one of the finest pieces of workmanship we have ever seen. The new firm is worthy of every confidence, and we are certain any merchant in need of a safe cannot do better than extending patronage to them. Their works are located on Seventeenth street, where a large stock is on hand for examination.
